

The Child Protection Policy Statement of the Church of England

The Church of England, in all aspects of its life, is committed to and will champion the protection of children and young people both in society as a whole and in its own community. It fully accepts, endorses and will implement the principles enshrined in The Children Act 1989 that the welfare of the child is paramount. The Church of England will foster and encourage best practice within its community by setting standards for working with children and young people and by supporting parents in the care of their children. It will work with statutory bodies, voluntary agencies and other faith communities to promote the safety and well-being of children and young people. It is committed to acting promptly whenever a concern is raised about a child or young person or about the behaviour of an adult and will work with the appropriate statutory body when an investigation into child abuse is necessary.

Children and Young People Safeguarding:

1995 – House of Bishops produced first child protection policy document (in response to the Home Office’s 1993 document Safe from Harm)

1999 and 2004 – policy revised

2010 – Latest policy Protecting All God’s Children

2017 - policy incorporated into the joint safeguarding policy Promoting a Safer Church

The policy is in place to protect not only children and young people, but also those adults who are committed to working with and for them.

Safeguarding of Children, Young People and Vulnerable Adults

Introduction

The guiding principle of our work with children, young people and vulnerable adults is always that their safety and care must be paramount.

Sadly, it is a fact that adults will attempt to infiltrate any organization to abuse children or young people. The church is probably no more vulnerable than other organizations but is unique in its ministry to both those who have been abused and those who have abused. We therefore need to create and maintain a culture of informed vigilance to safeguard and promote the welfare of our children, young people and vulnerable adults.

This can be achieved by a number of means, the most relevant to this document being safe recruitment and responding appropriately and proportionately to concerns about a child, young person or vulnerable adult, or concerns about the behaviour of an adult towards a child, young person or vulnerable adult.
